DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

DATES TO APRIL 4.

Washington News.

CHICAGO, April 4.—A Republican special says the Senate Finance Committee have agreed upon the recommendation of Commissioner Delano to strike the tobacco clause from the supplemental tax bill, also to extend the time of the payment of the tax on whisky in bond till June 1st. It is doubtful whether the House will agree to the latter proposition.

WASHINGTON, April 4. The President in response to a resolution sent from the House yesterday for a list of vessels captured or destroyed by the rebel cruisers, says the statement is made up of official claims filed by parties whose property was destroyed or other materials. It is deemed reliable and the number of vessels is given with the names and value. They are nearly three hundred, the aggregate value being upward of $13,000,000.

The joint Committee on retrenchment which has been investigating the mode of printing bonds and other government securities, have made their report. The Committee thinks that under the circumstances, at the commencement of business, some irregularity and even fraud and speculation are to be expected. The probability was realized, but the Committee think no extensive losses have occurred. The aggregate of government securities credited since 1860 amounts to over eighteen and one quarter billions (?) of dollars. The Committee give a statement of the different issues of loans and find a slight discrepancy between the number of bonds printed and issued. Nineteen Oregon war bonds were supposed to have been lost in the Golden Gate steamer. They were duplicated under an act of Congress, since which, some coupons of the original bonds have been presented and paid.

Recent letters from San Juan De Los Remedias Cuba, give the particulars of the massacre of Senora Arvalado and several of her children. Her husband had joined the insurgents and she had entered the Spanish lines to her family under promise of meeting her husband, when the whole party were butchered by the infuriated volunteers.

Several pretended agents of the Cubans, supposed to be Spanish emissaries, have been endeavoring to enlist various individuals without the authority or sanction of the provisional government of Cuba or of its representatives here.

More Gabbie by A. Johnson.

KNOXVILLE, April 3.—The city is thronged with people to day on the occasion of Andrew Johnson making a public address, to which about five thousand people listened. Johnson asked for a fair examination of his record. He said he intended to devote the remainder of his life as a private citizen to the vindication of his official life and of his native State from the obloquy cast upon them. He alluded to the obituaries of himself published in the papers and said he might be regarded as one risen from the dead. He thought one coming from the grave should be believed, and said there was great danger that the legislative department will wipe out the executive and judiciary departments of the Government. He compared the acts of Congress to the acts of Great Britain in relation to the colonies before the Revolution, and said a wise and good Prince was infinitely better than an arbitrary, despotic Congress. Noticing the accusation about his being the "Moses" of the blacks, he asked if it was not he who had freed the negroes of Tennessee? Freedom is only liberty to work, not to build up a miserable Lazaroni, to be supported by the Government. He never deceived white or black man. He told his auditors that they were all slaves of the bondholders, who never shed a drop of blood. "Would to God the Government had not credit to borrow a dollar to carry on war! Thank God my honors have not been gained through blood! Wounded soldiers cannot attribute their wounds to me." He spoke about two hours, eliciting close attention and was heartily applauded.

In conversation he spoke freely of Grant as a bundle of prejudices, and called his Cabinet a gift enterprise. The people were heartily glad to see Johnson, and expect much from him.

Heavy Robbery in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—A heavy robbery was committed at the St. Johns Safety Fund building to-day. The watchman left the building at six o'clock this morning and returned at six o'clock to night. He found the safe broken open and its entire contents, amounting to $30,000 or $100,000 in value gone. Over 60,000 was available funds in greenbacks, etc.

From Cuba.

HAVANA, April 3.—Colonel Yollor is organizing a battalion of free blacks for active service by permission of the government. Other battalions will be organized shortly.

The La Voize de Cuba approves of the organization of colored regiments. It says the colored people favor Spain and have always repelled the offers of the insurgents. It is reported that the insurgents have destroyed a portion of the Cagua La Grande railroad.

NEW YORK, April 4.—It appears that Casanova, who was recently arrested by the Spaniards and taken to Havana, is an American citizen. President Grant has telegraphed to Admiral Hoff enjoining upon him to see that all Americans are protected.

A Havana dispatch says the British vessel Heron has arrived. She brings confirmatory information of the charges against the Spanish naval authorities in the matter of the seizure of the schooner Mary Lowell. Several officers were compelled to leave Jamaica and ordered to return to Mexico.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, April 3.—The Prince of Wales has arrived at Constantinople. The Sultan received him with great splendor.

LONDON, April 4.—An Alexandria dispatch says another attempt to assassinate the Viceroy of Egypt has been discovered and frustrated. A loaded bomb was found under his chair in the theatre and removed before it exploded. A large number of suspected persons have been placed under arrest.

MADRID, April 4.—Prim has asked the Cortes to grant a contingent of 80,000 men for the army for the current year.

The Provisional Government has requested that the late Prime Minister of Isabella, Gonzales Bravo, now living in France, be examined by the French Government in regard to a plot discovered against the life of Admiral Lopez, in which they have reason to believe that Gonzales Bravo was concerned.

PARIS, April 4.—The demolition of the walls of the fortress of Luxembourg was concerned.

FLORENCE, April 3.—A conspiracy against the Government has been discovered in Naples and the ringleaders have been arrested.

UNPUBLISHED FACTS ABOUT THE MURDER OF DR. PARKMAN.—The Chicago Tribune, pointing out the resemblance between the recent murder of McConnell by a debtor, and that of Parkman by Dr. Webster, recalls some incidents in the latter crime never before made public.

Within half an hour after leaving his horrible work at the laboratory, the burning of the remains of his victims, on the afternoon of the murder, Dr. Webster called on his way home at the mantua maker's and tried on, talking all the while in his usual pleasant way about the most trivial affairs, a new dressing gown which was making for him. At the same time, he provided himself with strychnine, with which he attempted to take his own life when lodged in jail. But another fact, known to but very few persons, and never published, is that he confessed to the attending physician in a hurried whisper when he supposed his own death was imminent from the poison he had just taken, that he had killed Dr. Parkman. The testimony of this physician would have hanged him even had there been no other evidence, but he died before the Professor was brought to trial, and up to the time of his death none but his wife knew that he was the repository of this important secret.

"Hell roaring" Porter Rockwell, the compound epithet is his own self appropriated nom de plume, the chief of Brigham's "Avenging Angels," enfiladed recently with a Gentile named Hampton. The result was that the "Hell roaring Avenger" was very badly whipped. If Hampton is a wise man he will speedily emigrate from Mormondom, and be careful not to go abroad after dark while he remains.

U. S. District Court—District of Oregon—Saturday, Apr. 3, 1869.

In the matter of Julius M. Kallish, an alleged Bankrupt.

PETITION FOR FINAL DISCHARGE.

On June 12, 1865, Kallish was adjudged a bankrupt upon his own petition. On December 17, 1868, the bankrupt filed his petition for final discharge from his debts provable under the act. At the date of filing the petition for discharge, no debts had been proved against the estate but on January 2, 1869 four of the bankrupt's creditors proved their debts before the Register, amounting in the aggregate to $2,36[illegible]98.

On February 20, 1869 the creditors proving debts filed their objections to the discharge, which are specified as the first of which is as follows:

"That said bankrupt did wilfully swear falsely in the affidavit annexed to his schedule in that the said bankrupt fraudulently omitted to mention the existence of an unliquidated account between himself and his brother-in-law, P. Horning."

The remainder of the specifications are substantially as follows:—

2. The fraudulent omission from the schedule of a debt due the bankrupt from the said Horning of about $2,000.

3. That the bankrupt on or about January 1, 1865, gave a fraudulent preference to said Horning by conveying to him a saloon in the city of Portland for the purpose of delaying and defrauding his then existing creditors.

4. That the bankrupt is a trader in ice, and has failed since the passage of the bankrupt act to keep proper books of account.

5. That the bankrupt has concealed part of his effects from his assignee, in that he failed to disclose to the assignee the existence of the debt aforesaid, alleged to be due him from said Horning.

The case was set for trial on March 22, and was heard by the court. Kallish and Horning were examined as witnesses on behalf of the opposing creditors. No other testimony was introduced.

On the argument, counsel for the creditors abandoned the specifications except the first. Kallish and Horning are brother-in-laws—the former having married the sister of the latter. Kallish has one child living and buried one last summer. Horning is a bachelor and lives in the same house with Kallish. In fact they appear to constitute but one family.

They both testify that in the latter part of 1864, or the early part of 1865, Kallish sold and conveyed to Horning a saloon and small ice house in Portland and a salt works near Portland. The saloon was valued at $600 and the salt works at $2,500, but the sales were not made at once, nor do they state which was sold first.

At the time of these purchases they state, that Kallish owed Horning for money borrowed in 1863, about $1,000, for fifteen months labor in 1863-4, at $75 per month, $1,125,—in all—$2,125. At the time of the purchase of the salt works Horning professed to pay for them by his two promissory notes of $1,250 each, payable in one and two years. Since then, Kallish, (according to this testimony) has worked for Horning in the saloon and ice business without other wages than his support, and a promise of a part of the profits, if any should be made. Horning's notes have been long since delivered up and cancelled,—one of them within a month of the sale and the other within a year.

Shortly after the sales aforesaid, these witnesses testify that Horning paid for Kallish, money as follows: To laborers at Salt Works, about $250; to one Phillippi for beer furnished Saloon prior to Horning's purchase thereof $600; to discharge mortgage on Salt Works $660, in the aggregate $1,510.

This statement of their affairs makes the account between K. and H. stand thus: Horning owed K. for Saloon and Salt Works $2,125. Kallish owed H. for borrowed money, labor and debts paid for him as above stated $3,625, leaving a balance due Horning from K. of $525.

Whether these transactions actually occurred between these parties, or were merely simulated by them, to protect Kallish's property from the demands of his creditors, may be a question. The fact that K. was then largely in debt is a circumstance calculated to cast suspicion upon them. His indebtedness, all or principally contracted before that time is $5,021 46, while his assets are nothing. Besides there is the fact that Kallish has since carried on the saloon and ice business as Horning's agent without salary or wages,—Horning paying the expenses of the family of which he is practically a member.

However, counsel for the creditors does not press the consideration of this question, but insists that the proof supports the first specification and for that reason, the discharge ought not to be granted. There can be no doubt, from this statement of the accounts but that there was a balance due H. from K. The schedules of the bankrupt are silent on this point. Besides both Kallish and Horning swear positively that now and on May 30, 1868,—the date of the affidavit to the schedule and petition, the former is and was indebted to the latter. Horning testifies that this indebtedness on May 30, 1868, was between $800 and $800. Kallish testifies that on said date he owed H. about $500 or $600, more or less, but more than $300, and that he knew it when he made oath to his schedule, but that he had no account of it.

Assuming that this testimony is credible, the first specification is proved. The affidavit to schedule A, declares, that the same "to be a statement of all his debts," while this indebtedness to Horning is not mentioned therein. The Act (Sec. 29) provides that:—

"No discharge shall be granted, or, if granted, be valid if the bankrupt has wilfully sworn falsely in his affidavit annexed to his petition, schedule or inventory."

No explanation is offered by the bankrupt, of this discrepancy between the proof and his affidavit to the schedule. The bankrupt now testifies that on May 30, 1868, he was indebted to Horning and that he knew it, while his sworn schedule of same date is silent as to the matter.

Upon this state of facts, the conclusion is natural and reasonable, that the omission to place this debt in the schedule was intentional, and that the affidavit annexed thereto was wilfully false.

But I am not prepared to determine, beyond further consideration, that under these circumstances the opposing creditors are injured by this omission or falsehood, or that any one ought to be allowed to object to the discharge on this account, unless it be Horning, to whom the omitted debt appears to be due. I am not altogether satisfied in my own mind, but that the Act ought to be so construed that this objection could only be made by a creditor who is interested in the debt which is the subject of the misconduct of the bankrupt, or who is or may be injured by the omission or falsehood concerning it.

But the question has not been made on the argument, and the case is within the letter of the provision of the act prohibiting a discharge, and an order will be made dismissing the petition for discharge. DEADY, J.

DISESTABLISHMENT IN JAPAN. The proposition for the disestablishment of State churches has reached Japan. There the Buddhists is or was the established religion, and the priests have a monopoly of burying and praying for the dead. The original Shinto religion has fallen into disuse during some 300 years, since Jeyasu, the founder of the Taicun dynasty, found shelter in some Buddhist monasteries during his wars and at times of illness. When he reached the throne he rewarded his Buddhist friends and that became and continued the national religion. Of late however there is a disposition to revive Shintoism, and to drive out Buddhism together with every other institution derived from China or India. The Japanese are becoming more nationalistic than formerly.

A lady in Belfast, Ireland, after questioning the children of a charity school about what the wife of a king or emperor was called, asked: "What is the wife of a duke called?" "A drake," exclaimed several voices.

Jamison, champion billard player of the Pacific coast, has started overland from Virginia for the Atlantic States. He will travel leisurely, exhibiting his skill at the towns along the road.

Have you ever broken a horse?" inquired a horse-jockey. "No, not exactly, but I have broken three or four wagons," replied Simon.

LIFE IN NEBRASKA. A citizen of Nebraska thus posts an Eastern correspondent who sneered a variety of questions as to the territory and life there.

"What kind of a country do you live in?"

"Mixed and extensive. It is made up principally of land and water."

"What kind of weather?"

"Long spells of weather are frequent. Our sunshine comes off principally during the day time."

"Have you plenty of water, and how got?"

"A good deal of water scattered about and principally got in pails and whisky."

"Is it hard?"

"Rather so, when you have to go half a mile and then wade in mud knee deep to get it."

"What kind of buildings?"

"Allegoric, Ionic, anti-baloric, log and slabs. The buildings are chiefly out of doors, and so low between the joints that the chimneys all stick out through the roof."

"What kind of society?"

"Good, bad, hateful, indifferent and mixed."

"Any aristocracy?"

"Nary one."

"What do your people do for a living mostly?"

"Some work, some lase round, one's a shrewd business manager, and several drink whisky?"

"Is it cheap living there?"

"Only five cents a glass, and the water thrown in."

"Any taste for music?"

"Strong. Buzz and buck saws in the day time, and wolf-howling and cat-fighting nights."

"Any pianos there?"

"No, but we have several cow-bells, and a tin pan in every family."

"What could a genteel family in moderate circumstances do for a living?"

"Work, shave notes, fish, hunt, steal—or, if pinched, buy and sell town property."

A CROSS-ROADS EDUCATOR IN MARIPOSA.—A Mariposa correspondent of the Stockton Independent vouches for the authenticity of the subjoined sketch:

Scene—School room at Hardscrapple, near Confederate X Roads: Teacher of a public school instructing his pupils in the use and meaning of words.

Teacher—Now, Shones, tell me the meaning of soul.

Jones—Soul means life, is some times used to illustrate the animating principle.

Teacher—Very well. Now, Shones can you give an example?

Jones—I don't think I can.

Teacher—You don't think you can? Well, Stonewall Shackson was the soul of his army; Sheneral Peauregard was the soul of his army, Sheneral Longstreet was the soul of his army.

Jones (wondering whether any but rebels could be the soul of armies)—Was not Gen. Sherman the soul of his army?

This was a homethrust, and went to the quick; but, shrugging up his shoulders, hardly able to repress his anger, the teacher replies at the top his voice, "No."

Truly, this is teaching the "young idea how to shoot," and have the shooting anywhere, so that it is not favorable to the Union and its defenders.

GRANT AND JOHNSON.—The N. Y. Tribune thus excuses the President:

General Grant, it seems, refuses to ride with President Johnson, according to custom, in the procession on inauguration day, and thereupon we are treated to homilies concerning the alleged incivility. Perhaps if Grant had been fewer years a soldier and more a politician, he might have been more ready to recall the convenient maxim that the respect in such ceremonies is paid to the office, and not to the office holder. But Mr. Johnson once undertook to convict him of falsehood; and the American people are not likely to blame him much for remembering and resenting the attempt.

Enmity, vs Friendship

The harmony of Gen Grant's actions with his professions and with the official utterances and pledges of the Republican party is so complete as to utterly disappoint the opposition who have been cherishing the hope that discord would ensue; and they who hold themselves in readiness to support the new President upon the sole condition of his betrayal of himself, his country and his party, have reluctantly abandoned that position and resolved to continue the old party war Since the President is incapable of that moral delinquency which was witnessed in Andrew Johnson, he cannot fail to be met by the continued enmity which he has encountered, alike in war and peace, for the past eight years. One of the cardinal principles of his Administration, as stated by him in response to a delegation from Georgia, will be to so order affairs that "in Georgia and every other State, men can freely express their opinions without molestation." This is so great an innovation upon the long established Democratic practice in the Southern States that we can hardly expect that party to do otherwise than abuse and vilify the President who announces a policy so much at variance with the time-honored principles which allowed no tongue to wag against the chivalry and their peculiar theories.

The Missouri Republican, a leading opposition paper, has entirely abandoned the hope of treachery on the part of the President, and in a recent issue announces that since his fidelity is assured, "the old party war will be continued with scarcely a variation." This is well. Every man who cares for his reputation and his future, prefers the enmity of this party to its fatal friendship. The warfare upon Gen. Grant during the last year has been Satanic; but what have his defamers gained by it? His capacity, his services and character, personal, military and political, have been piled with an ingenious malignity which spared neither the truth nor the common decencies of a civilized people. This faction, which now pledges its renewed enmity to him held up his name as that of a "liar," a "drunkard," and a "libertine." They talked about cotton speculations and pronounced him a "thief." They pointed to the victories he had won for the country out of the bloodiest battles of this century, and howled their execrations upon the "butcher" of his countrymen. From Chicago to the White House they bayed on the track of the "Dictator who was plotting to overthrow all constitutional liberty." What has been the result? In spite of all their obloquy he occupies a secure place in the esteem and confidence of the country, a place made even more secure by the malignant defamation with which they sought to crush him. Let, the old party war be pursued, Go on, as you have done, ever ago.' Your enmity is impotent as that of General Grant, but see what your friendship has done for Andrew Johnson!

Machinery in Farming.

It is remarked with commendable spirit by an agricultural writer that those who have labored to make agriculture something more than the routine drudgery it has been, who have endeavored to elevate it to the rank of a mercantile or professional business, which shall prove as exciting and as interesting to our youth as the usual pursuits of city life now are, must take great pride in the present position of affairs. There is no longer any doubt that capital and intelligence applied to farming, fruit-growing, gardening, and the many occupations connected with the soil, will yield as large a return for the same energy, as anything that has been accomplished by the merchant, and that, too, with little of the risks and k[illegible] which attend general mercantile affairs.

This result is, in large part, one of the compensations which have grown out of our great war. In the mowing machine we have the labor of a vast number of men saved; that is to say, a clear gain of millions of dollars during every harvest season. This is true in proportion of all the various machines now used in agricultural operations. Formerly machinery was confined almost only to manufactures, and agriculture had to depend mainly on hand labor. The same amount of profit can never be realized [illegible] any business without machinery as with it; and hence those occupations which permitted of its use had the advantage. With machinery comes thought, and with thought comes the power to combine labor. Everywhere, whenever we see machinery come into farm use, we find the result in larger farms, the employment of a much greater number of men than before, greater crops, greater profits, and less hard work for the farmer who owns the machines and employs the men. We see the result of this intelligent application of labor to farming, everywhere about us. The prosperity of agriculture in Oregon depends to a great extent on the use of suitable machinery. While carts are so cheap little can be made at farming by hand-labor. If an intelligent use of machinery in farming operations becomes as general as it should, boys will not show so much disposition to leave the farm for other pursuits. Agriculture may be made, like other pursuits, to open the way to fortune and to bring position and influence, and these have always been, and always will be, the impelling motives with most young men.

Small Notes.

If A. Johnson has any friends left, they ought to try to prevail on him either to hold his peace or die in good earnest. His speech, reported in the telegraphic dispatches to-day is in parts quite as infamous, and in other parts quite as ridiculous, as anything he ever uttered. But perhaps it is as well for this Thersites to rail on, since the infamy of his party is exhibited in all its hideousness by his language and example.

Referring to the new order of things under the Administration of Grant, an Eastern paper says: "The year 1869 will not be smirched with the blood of so many loyal men of the South as was 1868. The flag is to be full in its protection to the whole land South as well as North, and all men are to be as free in Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and the other Ku Klux States as they are in Massachusetts. For this work Grant was elected, and this work is he doing."

Henry Clay Dean, a dirty politician whom the Herald holds in high favor, in a recent letter to a Confederate named Stilson Hutchins, says. "Democratic societies are organized in several of the Eastern States, and also in the Middle and Western States. I understand that the members of these societies pledge themselves to vote for no man, for any office whatever, who is not in favor of the entire abolition of the present revenue system, and who is not also in favor of repudiating the entire war debt of the United States except the pensions and bounty due the soldiers of the United States and the support of the disabled Confederate soldiers who served in the rank of that army." There is Democracy for you, pure and simple. Of course the only object in favoring the Union soldiers is to give the Confederates a chance to come in

In answer to some Southern men who were urging the appointment of a Cabinet member from the South Gen Grant remarked that he did not think the people of the South had any reason to complain For the last four years they had had a representative from that section at the head of the Government, and they ought to be satisfied."

We notice that the Democratic papers generally are pitching into Longstreet This is to be expected, since he would not remain a surly, unreconstructed rebel His appointment will, we hope, do good in the South It is evidence that neither the President nor the Senate bear malice or entertain prejudices when works have been done meet for repentance.

"The irrepressible Yankee has forced his way into all parts of the earth. A correspondent writing from Shanghai, China, says that the leading merchant of that place is an American. He ships twice as much tea as any other firm in the country, attends two churches, leads the choir at one, is treasurer of a missionary society, member of the Philharmonic Society, engineer of a fire company, member of a regatta club, teacher in a Sunday school, assistant editor of a newspaper, member of the Asiatic Society and a debater at the debating society.

The Sacramento Union's San Francisco money article of March 27 says. "The scarcity of money for business purposes increases, and its effects are felt in every department of trade. The Eastern and European bankers, who derive most of their accumulations from this State, are rapidly depleting our local supply of bullion. Should the process be much further continued, it may seriously interfere with the business affairs of this coast. It is not easy to explain why our treasure is being thus extensively exported to countries where the rental of money ranges from three to six per cent., while it is in such pressing demand here for legitimate purposes at twelve to fifteen per cent.

ANNUAL SCHOOL REPORT.

To the Voters, School District No. 1, Multnomah Co., Oregon: The undersigned, Directors of this District, submit the following as their Annual Report for the year ending April 5th, 1869.

When we entered upon our duties, we found the buildings hereafter mentioned occupied for public schools, to-wit:

Building corner of Morrison and Fifth streets.

Building occupying block 179, between 6th and 7th and Taylor and Morrison streets.

Building occupying block 38, Couch's Addition to Portland.

Building corner of 4th and Jefferson streets, occupied for a colored school.

Said house rented from E. D. Shattuck with a corps of teachers, eleven in number. In accordance with a resolution of the tax-payers last year, there has been erected a school house on the macadamized road, on the boundary line between the donation claims of James Terwilliger and Thomas Stevens, and about two and one-half miles south of this House. The total costs of building, clearing and grading the acre of land, erecting out-buildings and fencing the ground, has been about $2,200. The house was completed and school commenced in September last and continued about two months, when, there being but five scholars attending school, your Directors deemed it for the interest of the District to close said school, which they did, and on the 18th of January commenced again and continued through the quarter, with an average attendance of fifteen scholars. From the best information we can obtain, there are not to exceed eighteen scholars within one-half mile of said school house, and we recommend that only six months school be taught there during the coming year. We also recommend that the colored school be kept only six months during the coming year. The number of scholars attending this school averages about sixteen, and in justice to the tax-payers we believe they are not entitled to more than six months separate school, and so recommend.

We are glad to report to the tax-payers of this District that the several schools of the District are in a flourishing condition; that the scholars generally have been well behaved and regular in their attendance, and have made fair progress in their studies; that an efficient corps of teachers have been employed, fourteen in number, who are entitled to much credit for the manner in which they have discharged their duties. For a list of their names and salaries we refer you to the paper hereto attached, marked "Exhibit A."

Your Directors have made every effort in their power to make the public schools of this city efficient and a credit to the city and State. It is for you to judge how far we have succeeded.

During the year the district has been put to large expense for public improvements, such as grading, making side and cross walks, etc., etc. There has been over 1,400 feet of sidewalks and necessary cross walks, and nearly all the grading done around the school property, consisting of two whole blocks and one half-block within the city limits and one acre of ground on the Macadamized road. There has been a good substantial fence built around the North school house block, 800 feet, and a water-house and the water brought on the school grounds, and good, commodious water closets.

The Central school house has been thoroughly cleaned and painted, two good coats inside and out, the fence put in good order and painted and the walks around the house repaired.

The Harrison Street school house has been whitened inside and painted, a good substantial fence built around the same, and the walks repaired. Your directors respectfully recommend the enlargement of this building by building 35 or 40 feet on the West end so as to double its present capacity. At present the efficiency of this school is much impaired by being crowded. There are twice as many scholars in each room as there should be. By enlarging it, as recommended, it will be twice its present capacity. This improvement we regard as absolutely necessary.

We also recommend that the tax payers authorize the directors to purchase a block in the rear of the city for the purpose of erecting a High School upon it at some future day. These are substantially the improvements made during the year and our recommendations for the future.

Your directors, in view of the rapid growth of the city, and the absolute necessity of more thoroughly grading the schools in order to make them what is desired, and to keep up with the progress of the age, and not to be behind our sister States, have fitted up the upper floor of the North school house for a High School until some suitable building is prepared for that purpose, and it can be occupied at the commencement of the next term unless you otherwise direct. The only additional expense in keeping the school will be for teachers, and will be about $2,000. We hope our action in this matter will meet your approbation.

The Clerk will state to you the amount of money received and disbursed under its appropriate heads, also, the average daily attendance We have drawn warrants upon the Clerk numbering from 1 to 144 inclusive, amounting to $22,229 39 Of this amount there has been paid for debts due and owing when we came into office the sum of nearly $4,000, leaving a balance of $18,229 39 expended during the year for the purposes reported.

At your last annual meeting you elected three directors: Gen. A. L. Lovejoy, Dr R Glisan and A. P. Dennison Shortly after election Dr Glisan resigned and Gen Lovejoy and A P Dennison have performed the duties of directors to the best of their ability. We have devoted much time to the schools without compensation and trust our efforts will be appreciated. We return our thanks to patrons and tax payers, supporters of their Public Schools, for their uniform courtesy and friendly co operation in the discarge of their duties.

You are now called together again for the purpose of electing one Director in place of Dr R Glisan, resigned, and one in place of A P Dennison, whose term expires, and a School Clerk for the ensuing year, also to levy such tax as you may think proper for the support of the schools for the ensuing year, and such other matters as may properly come before you.

The district is entirely out of debt, with the exception of a few small items for repairs now in course of completion, etc.

The Directors present herewith an estimate of the necessary expenses for the ensuing year for the support of the Public Schools, marked Exhibit B. All of which is respectfully submitted

Mrs. Lincoln at Frankfort.

(Correspondence of the Boston Journal.

As Mrs. Lincoln's petition for a pension is now before the United States Senate, perhaps your readers would like to know something of her whereabouts. She is at Frankfort with her son, who is at school. She lives at one of the public hotels in a very plain and unpretending style, occupying a room in the third story, keeping very much to herself, and having the reputation of being very industrious. She is quite economical, and if appearances do not mislead, she has no more funds than is necessary to make her comfortable. To the Americans she speaks very freely of the good President, her husband; and always with tears. Two periods of the Presidential career of Mr. Lincoln she alludes to with great feeling. The one covers the last day he spent in Springfield before he first started for Washington. The other is connected with the last day of Mr. Lincoln's life. He had a presentiment when he left his house at Springfield that he should never enter it again. He was tender but very sad in all his farewells to his neighbors. When he got into his carriage to go to the station, he gave the old homestead, where he had passed so many hours of his life, a long, fond, lingering look. Turning to his wife, he said: "My dear, take a good look at the old house. We shall never live in it again—never." He leaned back in his carriage and was silent till he reached the station.

The day on which Mr. Lincoln was shot he seemed very sad and worn down. Before he left the breakfast table Mrs. L. said to him: "You need rest, you are exhausted. Promise me that you will ride with me this afternoon at 3 o'clock," and he promised. Mrs. Lincoln said: "Shall I invite some friends to go with us?" He said. "No, let us go alone." He was uncommonly tender during the whole ride; spoke of their pleasant home in Springfield; their early struggles; the death of their children, the noble men who had died in battle, and the dear friends they had left behind. He seemed like one on the western slope and nearing the going down of the sun, whose joys and the friends of his youth were clustering around him. The rest of the story the world knows by heart.

Whatever may have been thought of Mrs. Lincoln during the heat of the conflict of the rebellion, she has won on this side of the water only friends, by her lady-like and retired conduct. The best friends of America here think she has been treated rather harshly. Military men are unanimous in their opinion that she is entitled to a pension as much as any soldier's widow, for, by our Constitution, the President is the head of the army, and he fell in the cause of his country.

STATE ITEMS.

A fire engine has been purchased in San Francisco for the use of the Fire Company at Albany. The cost, including freight, will be about $1,800.

The Albany Register is full of an excursion made by the citizens of that place on one of the P. T. Co.'s boats to Corvallis, the proceeds of the excursion going to the Albany fire Company. The P. T. Co. tendered the boat for the excursion free of charge.

A paper is being circulated soliciting subscriptions for the procuring of a night watchman for Eugene. The paper is drawn up so as to obligate each person putting their name to it to pay monthly the sum set opposite for one year, the money to be used in paying some competent person to act as night watchman.

The Long Tom people, says the Eugene Journal, were so infatuated with the presence of a steamboat on the placid waters of their quiet stream that they did not let the Ann leave, but have it tied up somewhere in the Long Tom now. They probably think that if a boat is a good thing they will keep this one while they have it. Good idea. It might have been able to get back if it had been allowed to leave.

From the Eugene Journal The steamer Echo arrived at this place on Sunday evening with considerable freight, and went immediately to Springfield, where it remained over night and returned on Monday, leaving this place with 101 tons of freight, the heaviest load ever taken by a boat from this market. Another boat came up on Wednesday and also went to Springfield, returning the same day. The two boats were not able to take near all the freight from this place and Springfield, and as the river is falling very fast, it is not likely that they will be able to reach here again until there is another rain. Rain enough for farmers in Oregon does not answer the purpose of steamboat men

The Virginia Enterprise says another silver lode has been discovered in Nevada. The editor goes on tells how much bullion it has produced the last year $12,000,000—and then adds "Having described the district, we cannot now do less than give its name and location. Its name is Virginia and Gold Hill, and its principal deposit is the Comstock."

The Rogue River Recorder says the White Pine fever has broken out in the nursery, and babies talk about it familiarly. We heard of a two year old the other day who threatened to leave his home at once and go to White Pine if his mother did not pile up the sugar on his bread and butter

The Austin (Nev.) Reveille wondereth that no velocipede has yet made its appearance at that town. A town that has not been velocipeded is a low coach.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES

Washington News

Washington, April 5.—The House Naval Committee will report a bill repudiating secretary Borie's construction of the eight hour law by providing against any reduction of wages

There is considerable excitement among the officers of the navy over the order reducing their rank It was done at the dictation of Admiral Porter, who runs the Naval Department. It reverses the practice of years standing, but is in direct opposition to the opinion of Attorney General Hoar The House Naval Committee will take action against the proceedings.

It is said that Longstreet only accepts the Surveyorship of New Orleans temporarily Should Sickles decline the Mexican mission Longstreet will be nominated to that position It is understood that the President will convene the second session on April 12th

Chicago, April 5.—The Times' special says the Government has received information that a filibustering expedition is about to leave New Orleans for Cuba Special instructions have been sent to Admiral Hoff to intercept it and all similar expeditions from American ports

The Republican's special understands that Gen Stedman arranged the above referred to expedition

The Nova Scotia annexation scheme promises to develop into something serious It is understood that Robert Walker has been employed by the annexationists to represent them

Washington, April 5.—The Tribune's special says the President has recalled Minister Watts from Vienna and is considering the propriety of recalling Hale from Madrid. There is considerable talk because Ashley's name has not been sent in with other Senatorial nominations. Ashley was positively agreed upon for Governor of Montana.

Caleb Cushing has private letters showing that it was not the Senate, but a committee of the Senate of Columbia, which decided against the Darien Isthmus Canal treaty.

The diplomatic nominations are nearly ready There will not be many changes at present New York has a quarter of the first class missions and half of all the appointments

The President informed several Representatives that he intended to sign the tenure of office bill

Miscellaneous.

New York, April 5.—The printers' strike, which has been long existing, was finally settled by both parties making concessions. The employing printers agree to recognize the Union, and recommend the establishment of a house for the accommodation of unemployed printers, to be supplied with magazines and newspapers, the expense to be equally shared by the Union and the employers.

The Herald's Mexican letter says civil war continues to rage in Tamaulipas with unabated fury. A party of rebels defeated Escobedas' troops near Villa Franca, capturing equipage, archives, and twenty-seven thousand dollars in specie. The same party attacked the city of Lanaros but were repulsed with heavy loss. Escobedas' policy towards the rebels was of a most bloody and relentless character, and for utter extermination. He has given an order to shoot all foreigners without passports. Two American traders were robbed by the military and shot, and their bodies hung upon trees.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

San Francisco, March 5.—An awful tragedy occurred yesterday afternoon at Allen's Lodging House, Market street. A man named J. D. Derrick, shot his wife and her lover, Frank Edwards, and then shot himself through the head. The woman and Edwards will recover, although badly wounded. Infidelity of the wife appears to be the cause. Derrick left letters relative to leaving his children, showing that the act was premeditated.

Mrs. Margaret Oughton, who cut her throat last Thursday, died yesterday.

The U. S. Marine Hospital, which was severely damaged by the earthquake of October last, received further injury by the light shock of April first.

The steamer Great Republic, for Yokahama and Hong Kong, sailed to-day, carrying $491,000 in treasure.

Liverpool, April 5.—California wheat is quoted at 9s 7d.

Madrid, April 5.—A majority of the Cortes and Council ministers favor Ferdinand for King. A committee, including Olozaga, have gone to Lisbon to request his acceptance.

New York, April 5.—A Tribune special says the Spanish Cortes asked the Ministry for the documents relative to the goods said to have been imported for commerce by Minister Hale under the diplomatic franchise.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Jacksonville, April 5.—A man named Uriah C. Knight was found dead in his bed at a hotel this morning. He had been drinking heavily and had taken an ounce of laudanum last night which caused his death.

The New Administration has filled the various offices; so have Barman Bros., filled their spacious store, corner Front and Morrison Streets, with the Latest Styles of Merchant Tailoring Goods, consisting of French Cassimeres, Beaver, Broadcloths and all kinds of Vestings, also a fine Stock of Ready Made Clothing, and Gents' Furnishing Goods, which they are enabled to sell lower than any other House in their city, as their Mr Isaac Barman is constantly in the San Francisco market, purchasing at the most advantageous prices, of which their customers always have the benefit. Go and see them—no trouble to show goods.

Public Speakers and singers will find "Brown's Bronchial Troches" beneficial in clearing the voice before speaking or singing, and relieving the throat after an unusual exertion of the vocal organs, having a peculiar adaptation to affections which disturb the organs of speech. For Coughs and Colds the Troches are effectual.

Lamartine

Alphonse de Lamartine, the distinguished French poet and historian who died, recently, was born at Macon, France, October 21, 1790, and was the son of the Chevalier de Lamartine, a prominent royalist, during the revolution of 1792, who narrowly escaped the guillotine for his faithful adherence to the fortunes of Louis XVI. The young Lamartine spent his early years in seclusion with his mother at the village of Milly, and at the age of 12 went to the college of Lyons, and subsequently to the college of the Jesuits at Belly, where he finished his education. On account of a love affair he was sent to Paris, whence, in 1811, he went to Italy, where occurred his romantic adventures with Graziella, the daughter of a Neapolitan fisherman who died of sheer despair when Lamartine left her. In 1818 Lamartine went to Italy a second time, and in 1820 his first collection of poems, "Meditations Poetiques," was published, resulting in the sale of 45,000 copies and a fortune to its publisher. The success of the poems brought Lamartine a diplomatic appointment, and he became secretary of the French embassy at Naples, where he soon after married Miss Birch, an English woman of great beauty and accomplishments, and who died several years since. Lamartine was actively engaged in diplomatic and literary labors from 1820 until 1848, publishing volumes of poems, travels, fiction and history, and always keeping in favor with the powers that were whether loyalist or republican. In the revolution of 1848, Lamartine assumed a leading part, and for a time seemed at the hight of popularity in France. He employed all his powers of eloquence and persuasion, with great and good effect, in restraining the excesses of his associate liberals and in preventing the new republic from lapsing into a reign of terror. Lamartine's political power declined rapidly after his coalition with Ledru Rollin, and after the coup d'etat of December, 1851, he retired to private life, devoting himself exclusively to literary pursuits. His later works were among his least valuable, and added nothing to his literary fame. Lamartine's greatest curse was extravagance, which kept him perpetually in debt and perpetually seeking assistance from his friends. He became known during his later years more as a literary beggar than an illustrious author, and his genius was sunk beneath a sea of debt. Lamartine outlived by a quarter of a century, his best days and brightest fame.

How Lucy Stone Bosses Her Husband.

[Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.]

In 1854 she was married to Henry B. Blackwell, an Englishman by birth, who was then a hardware merchant in Cincinnati, Ohio, and who had for years been identified with the [illegible] cause. He was a well educated, honorable gentleman, and had long been an admirer of the brave little woman, who had never suspected an attachment of a warmer sort. When he proposed to her he said he wished her to become his wife on her own terms. She consented; her terms being the retention of her maiden name, and the renunciation on his part of all his legal rights as a husband.

Such union could not have been formidable to her, whatever it might have been to him. Their marriage was nothing more than an agreement to live together while they were agreeable to each other, and as there were few bonds there was little agitation to break them. Pecuniary unions might be regarded as advantageous between persons who feel certain of a harmonious future. Stone and her husband say those who expect to know never repented. They have lived happily for thirteen years, and seem likely to do so to the last. They have but one child, and have spent their married life almost entirely in the West Blackwell now lives in the strictest retirement.

Lucy Stone, the wife of Mrs. Blackwell always offends her—is very far from handsome. She is small in stature, has gray eyes, dark brown hair, a well shaped mouth, and handsome teeth. Her complexion is so florid as to indicate rusticity, and her features are not at all regular or expressive of high breeding. Hers is a strong face, and when lighted up loses much of its homeliness, and strikes you as pleasing. Her power is in her voice. Turn away from her, and you still well imagine she is lovely. Look at her critically, and you almost forget the sweet tones that have much to do with her power of persuasion. She is extremely kind-hearted and benevolent, and never neglects an opportunity to do good. She has been much misrepresented, ridiculed, and abused; but no one who knows her will say she is not a true woman, whose aims and purposes have always been in the direction of justice, humanity and right.

WHO IS THE?—General Shelly, on passing a review of a cavalry corps, had this dialogue with one of his sergeants:

"Which is the best horse in the squadron?" asked the General.

"The bay No. 40."

"What qualities has he which makes him best?"

"He runs and leaps well, has no defects in his limbs or health, is fat, carries his head high, has good blood, and is in the prime of his age."

"And who is the best soldier in the squadron?"

"The best soldier is Francois I—"

"And why is he best?"

"Because he is an honorable, is obedient, clean, takes care of his equipments, his arms and his horse, and is exact in the performance of his duties."

"And to whom does the best horse belong?"

"It is mine, General."

"And who is the soldier?"

"Your humble servant, General."

The General laughed, and gave the man a present of money, which he received with imperturbable gravity.

CALIFORNIA WHEAT CROP.—The San Francisco Bulletin of March 17th says the late rains in that State will insure, with reasonable certainty, the maturity of the wheat harvest. A cessation of rain for thirty days had created a fear lest the crop should be pinched off, as it has happened in some previous years, by an absence of late moisture. The same paper says there have been more large ventures in wheat sowing this year than it has noticed in any previous year. The risks seen in the way of farms bought and lands rented at high rates have been so many, that nothing but an abundant crop and good prices can save this class of wheat-growers from disaster.

A lady in Boston is so industrious that when she has nothing else to do she sits and knits her brows.

A deed, transferring 330,245 acres of land in Kansas, was recently recorded in Topeka.

Ophthalmic Panacea!

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered.

It CURES the most stubborn and hopeless cases of CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS, GRANULATED LIDS, FILMS, &c., as has been abundantly demonstrated during the few months in which it has been brought into public notice. The proprietor is fully convinced of its INVALIDITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR REFUNDS THE MONEY. He can in all cases no harm, and a trial of it is therefore with no injury or expense to the patient if a cure is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN, and even EIGHTEEN YEARS' standing in Harrisburg, Linn county, Oregon, and to which the following persons will bear witness

E B MOORE, NATHANIEL BELL,
A L WALLACE, [illegible] WARD,

U. S. MARSHAL'S NOTICE.—DISTRICT OF OREgon. Whereas a libel has been filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon on the 30th day of March, A D 1869, by Thomas Smith et al, against the Barkentine Jane Falkinburg, her boats, tackle, apparel and furniture, alleging in substance that the libellants on some time in March, A D 1869, shipped on board the said barkentine as seamen, for a voyage from the port of San Francisco, Cal., to the port of Portland, Oregon, and back to said port of San Francisco, and that said barkentine arrived at the said port of Portland on the 20th day of March, 1869. That in consequence of the misconduct of an officer toward the said libellants on the 28th day of March, 1869, they could not continue said voyage without peril to their persons or health and were compelled to leave said barkentine by reason of such misconduct on the 28th day of March, 1869, and that the master refuses to pay their wages or any part thereof, and praying the usual process and monition against said barkentine, her boats, etc., and decree for the payment of their wages. Now, therefore, in pursuance of the warrant under the Seal of said Court, to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said barkentine, Jane Falkinburg, her boats, etc., or in any manner interested therein, that they be and appear before the said District Court, to be held in Portland on the 3d day of May, 1869, at 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, then and there to interpose their claims and make their allegations in that behalf AL ZIEBER, U. S Marshal.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF Oregon, Washington,

Lamartine.

Alphouse de Larmatine, the distinguished ench poet and historian who died, recently,
s born at Macon, France, October 21, 1790.
d was the son of the Chevalier de Lamar ne, a prominent royalist, during the revolu-on of 1792, who narrowly escaped the guillone for his faithful adherence to the fortunes Louis XVI. The young Lamartine, spent s early years in seclusion with his mother
the village of Milly, and at the age of 12 nt to the college of Lyons, and subsequent-to the college of the Jesuits at Belly, where finished his education On account of a ve affair he was sent to Paris, whence, in 11, he went to Italy, where occurred his mantic adventures with Graziella, the ughter of a Neapolitan fisherman who died sheer despair when Lamartine left her 1818 Lamartine went to Italy a second me, and in 1820 his first collection of poems, Meditations Poetiques," was published, re-lting in the sale of 15,000 copies and a for-ne to its publisher The success of the oems brought Lamartine a diplomatic ap-ointment, and he became secretary of the rench embassy at Naples, where he soon ter married Miss Birch, an English woman great beauty and accomplishments, and ho died several years since. Lamartine was tively engaged in diplomatic and literary bors from 1820 until 1848, publishing vol-nes of poems, travels, fiction and history, d always keeping in favor with the powers at were whether loyalist or republican. In e revolution of 1848, Lamartine assumed a ading part, and for a time seemed at the ght of popularity in France. He employed his powers of eloquence and persuasion, ith great and good effect, in restraining the cesses of his associate liberals and in pre-nting the new republic from lapsing into a ign of terror. Lamartine's political power clined rapidly after his coalition with Ledru ollin, and after the coup d'etat of December, 851, he retired to private life, devoting himlf exclusively to literary pursuits. His later orks were among his least valuable, and dded nothing to his literary fame. Lamar-ne's greatest curse was extravagance, which ept him perpetually in debt and perpetually eking assistance from his friends. He be-ame known during his later years more as literary beggar than an illustrious author, nd his genius was sunk beneath a sea of ebt. Lamartine outlived by a quarter of a entury, his best days and brightest fame.

[illegible] most of the West
Bl[illegible], the strictest retir[illegible].

Lucy S[illegible] the [illegible] of Mrs. Blackwell always offends her—is very far from handsome. She is small in stature, has gray eyes, dark brown hair, a well shaped mouth, and handsome teeth. Her complexion is so florid as to indicate rusticity, and her features are not at all regular or expressive of high breeding. Hers is a strong face, and when lighted up it [illegible] much of its homeliness, and strikes [illegible] Then away from her, and you can well imagine she is lovely. Look at her critically, and you almost forget the sweet tones that have much to do with her power of persuasion. She is extremely kind-hearted and benevolent, and never neglects an opportunity to do good. She has been much misrepresented, ridiculed, and abused; but no one who knows her will say she is not a true woman, whose aims and purposes have always been in the direction of justice, humanity and right.

[illegible] Lieutenant-General Shelly, on reviewing a review of a cavalry corps, had this dialogue with one of his sergeants:

"Which is the best horse in the squadron?"
asked the General.

"[illegible] No. 40."

"What qualities has he which makes him best?"

"He runs and leaps well, has no defects in his limbs or health, is fat, carries his head high, has good blood, and is in the prime of his age."

"And who is the best soldier in the squadron?"

"The best soldier is Francois I—"

"And why is he best?"

"[illegible] he is an honorable [illegible] in obedient, clean, takes care of his equipments, his arms and his horse, and is exact in the performance of his duties."

"And to whom does the best horse belong?"

"It is mine, General."

"And who is the soldier?"

"Your humble servant, General."

The General laughed, and gave the man a present of money, which he received with imperturbable gravity.

CALIFORNIA WHEAT CROP.—The San Francisco Bulletin of March 17th says the late rains in that State will insure, with reasonable certainty, the maturity of the wheat harvest.
A cessation of rain for thirty days had created [illegible] lest the crops should be pinched off, as it has happened in some previous [illegible], by an absence of late moisture. The same paper says there have been more large ventures in wheat sowing this year than it as noticed in any previous year. The risks [illegible] in the way of farms bought and lands [illegible] at high rates have been so many, that nothing but an abundant crop and good prices can save this class of wheat-growers rom disaster.

A lady in Boston is so industrious that hen she has nothing else to do she sits and nits her brows.

A deed, transferring 330,245 acres of land
n Kansas, was recently recorded in Topeka.

U. S. MARSHAL'S NOTICE.—DISTRICT OF OREGON. Whereas a libel has been filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon on the 30th day of March, A D 1869, by Thomas Smith et al, against the Barkentine Jane Falkinburg, her boats, tackle, apparel and furniture, alleging in substance that said libellants some time in March, A D 1869, shipped on board the said barkentine as seamen, for a voyage from the port of San Francisco, Cal. to the port of Portland, Oregon, and back to said port of San Francisco, and that said barkentine arrived at the said port of Portland on the 20th day of March, 1869 That in consequence of the misconduct of an officer toward the said libellants on the 28th day of March, 1869, they could not continue said voyage without peril to their persons or health and were compelled to leave said barkentine by reason of such misconduct on the 29th day of March, 1869; and that the master refuses to pay their wages or any part thereof, and praying the usual process and monition against said barkentine, her boats, etc., and decree for the payment of their wages. Now, therefore, in pursuance of the warrant under the Seal of said Court, to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said barkentine Jane Falkinburg, her boats, etc., or in any manner interested therein, that they be and appear before the said District Court, to be held in Portland on the 3d day of May, 1869, at 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, then and there to interpose their claims and make their allegations in that behalf AL. ZIEBER, U. S Marshal.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREgon for the county of Multnomah—Henry L Pittock, Plaintiff, vs James P. O. Lownsdale, Administrator, James P. O. Lownsdale, Guardian of Millard O Lownsdale, Millard O. Lownsdale, Ruth A Lownsdale, John A Blanchard her Guardian, Ida Squires, Wm. E. Cooper her Guardian, Emma S. Lamb and John R. Lamb her husband, Mary E. Cooper and Wm E. Cooper her husband, James P. O Lownsdale and Hannah and Hiram Smith, Defendants.—Summons in equity to quiet title to Block 215, City of Portland, Oregon.—To Ida Squires, one of the Defendants above named: Whereas the plaintiff above named has filed in the Court above named a complaint of which you are hereby notified, and claims title to that parcel of land known as Block No. 215 in the City of Portland, Oregon, to which, it is said, you and other defendants set up some claim adverse to plaintiff, and prays that said adverse claim be determined and that you be excluded from any lien, interest or estate in said land; and whereas a summons was duly issued and you were required to answer said complaint in ten days if served in said county or within twenty days if served out of said county; and you were not served within said State, but it was shown that you were a non-resident of the State of Oregon, and an order of publication was made by said Court, to the end that you might be notified of the pendency of this suit: Now, therefore, in the name of the State of Oregon, you, the said Ida Squires, are hereby notified of the pendency of the above entitled suit and are required to appear in the Court above entitled at the City of Portland, on the first day of the next term thereof, to be held on the second (2d) Monday of June, 1869, and answer said complaint, or in default thereof, the said complaint will be taken as confessed and the plaintiff will take judgment against you, and a decree according to the prayer of said complaint as above set out, as well as for general relief.
